Checking out progress of broadband project

Grant managers from the National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) of the U.S. Department of Commerce included three hours in Davenport Aug. 28 during a follow-up tour of sites involved in NoaNet's broadband expansion project in Washington. While here, they met with Lincoln Hospital administrator Tom Martin, Davenport Schools Supt. Jim Kowalkowski (pictured at right), Lincoln County Information Services director Brad Hudson, and EDC director Margie Hall, who described the experience as "a good opportunity to relay Lincoln County's broadband story to guests from a federal agency."
